David Evans and Associates, Inc., acquires San Diego based Lintvedt, McColl & Associates

PORTLAND, Ore. – Feb 12, 2009 – David Evans and Associates, Inc. (DEA) has acquired civil engineering and land surveying firm Lintvedt, McColl & Associates (LMA).

LMA has 18 employees based in San Diego, Calif., and serves clients in the public and private sectors located in Southern California. The addition of LMA will complement DEA's survey and transportation engineering services.

"We are very excited to have LMA join DEA," said Bob Dameron, DEA's Southern California regional manager. "LMA has a 60-year history of providing excellent service to clients, which made them an attractive partner for us."

Founded in 1945, LMA's services range from preliminary design and feasibility studies through final design and construction. The firm has a broad range of design experience, including major road design, public works improvements, drainage design, traffic engineering, survey mapping, hydrographic surveying, right-of-way engineering and construction surveying, as well as site development for schools, libraries, medical facilities, commercial and industrial buildings, park and recreation facilities, waterfront facilities, and residential projects.

"DEA is a highly respected firm in this region," said Patricia McColl, LMA principal. "We see this merger as an opportunity to provide a wider range of services to our clients, deliver more complex and interesting projects, attract and retain qualified personnel and enjoy long-term stability and growth."

Since its founding in 1976 in Portland, Ore., DEA has become a recognized leader for progressive and sustainable design and management solutions for complex transportation, land development, energy, and water resources projects nationwide. DEA's multi-disciplinary teams partner with clients to tailor solutions to meet the unique needs of each project. The firm has more than 20 offices in seven states and employs more than 900 people firmwide. Its staff includes professional engineers, surveyors, planners, landscape architects, and natural resources scientists. DEA is an employee-owned corporation and consistently ranks among ENR's Top 100 Pure Design firms in the U.S. DEA and its staff are committed improving the quality of life, while demonstrating stewardship of the built and natural environments.
