DEA sister company CEO named President of AGC America

PORTLAND, Ore. – April 13, 2010 – On March 20, 2010, Ted Aadland, CEO of Aadland Evans Constructors, became the 91st president of the Associated General Contractors of America (AGC).

Aadland has been involved in the construction industry for more than 40 years and has been a strong supporter and leader of AGC for decades. He is the former president and co-founder of F.E. Ward. Under his direction, F.E. Ward became one of the premier contractors in the Northwest, known for its ability to provide unique solutions for difficult projects. Aadland sold F.E. Ward to the Wildish Group in 2003.

In 2006, Aadland formed Aadland Evans Constructors, Inc. (AECI) as a subsidiary of David Evans Enterprises, Inc., also the holding company for David Evans and Associates, Inc. (DEA).

Aadland Evans merges decades of owner and construction contractor experience into one integrated team. AECI's staff has successfully delivered a wide variety of complex projects and built an excellent reputation for on-time, on-budget and claims-free project delivery. DEA has more than 18 offices in seven states and employs more than 650 people.

Since its founding in 1976 in Portland, Ore., DEA has become a recognized leader for progressive and sustainable design and management solutions for complex transportation, land development, energy, and water projects nationwide. Its staff includes professional engineers, surveyors, planners, landscape architects, and natural resources scientists. DEA is an employee-owned corporation and consistently ranks among ENR's Top 100 Pure Design firms in the U.S. For more information about DEA, visit www.deainc.com.
